

Cost of Corrosion-Resistant Cable Trays in Ireland

AI Overview

Corrosion-resistant cable trays in Ireland, such as FRP or GRP, generally cost more upfront than steel but offer long-term savings due to lower maintenance and installation costs.

Material Options and Cost Considerations

FRP (Fibre Reinforced Polymer) and GRP (Glass Reinforced Polymer) cable trays are widely used for corrosion resistance in industrial and outdoor environments. These trays are significantly lighter than steel—up to 70% less in mass—which reduces handling and installation costs. The density of FRP/GRP is approximately $1.8\text{--}2.1\text{ g/cm}^3$ compared to 7.85 g/cm^3 for steel, contributing to easier installation and lower structural support requirements. Steel cable trays, including hot-dip galvanized options, are cheaper initially but are prone to corrosion in harsh environments, leading to higher lifecycle costs due to maintenance, replacement, and potential downtime.

Price Range in Ireland

While exact prices vary by supplier, size, and material, typical market expectations are:

- FRP/GRP cable trays: Prices generally range from €50 to €150 per meter for standard industrial sections, depending on width, depth, and resin type (unsaturated polyester for general use, vinyl ester for aggressive chemical environments).
- Galvanized steel trays: Usually €20 to €60 per meter, but may incur additional costs over time due to corrosion protection and maintenance.

Suppliers in Ireland include Dwyers Electrical, RS Components, Electrical Wholesaler, and GroupSumi, all offering corrosion-resistant trays suitable for indoor and outdoor installations. GroupSumi, for example, provides outdoor trays made from weather-resistant materials designed for long-term durability.

Additional Cost Factors

Accessories: Supports, joints, connectors, and clips can add 10–20% to the total project cost.

Installation: Lighter FRP/GRP trays reduce labor costs and structur...
