

Distribution Box Flame Retardant Material Board Manufacturer

AI Overview

Leading manufacturers of flame-retardant distribution boxes include VIOX Electric, Bharat Flameproof, Extol International, and MCI Electrotechnics, offering high-quality, safe, and durable solutions for industrial and hazardous environments.

Key Manufacturers and Their Offerings

VIOX Electric provides distribution boxes made from flame-retardant materials, including ABS and stainless steel options. Their products feature high IP ratings for dust and water protection, user-friendly designs with modular components, and durability for both indoor and outdoor applications. VIOX emphasizes safety, corrosion resistance, and ease of maintenance, making their distribution boxes suitable for residential, commercial, and industrial use (VIOX Electric).

Bharat Flameproof specializes in flameproof and explosion-proof distribution boards for hazardous areas with flammable gases or dust. Their products are manufactured from premium cast aluminum alloy LM6 and comply with IECEx standards. They offer 24-way and MCB distribution boards suitable for Flameproof Zones 1 and 2, designed to prevent fire spread and limit damage from electrical faults (Bharat Flameproof).

Extol International supplies distribution boards and control panels for hazardous areas, including options in stainless steel, GRP, and sheet steel. Their products are designed for indoor and outdoor applications with IP42 to IP66 ratings and include explosion-proof designs compliant with ATEX directives, suitable for Zone 1 and Zone 2 hazardous areas (Extol International).

MCI Electrotechnics manufactures bespoke and standard distribution boards for safe and hazardous areas, including wall-mounted and free-standing systems. Their products support high current ratings up to 3200A and are compatible with major components from ABB, Schneider, Eaton, and Allen Bradley. MCI emphasizes high-quality constr...
