

Price of cable tray elbow arc forming machine

AI Overview

Cable tray elbow or arc forming machines typically range from $15,000 to $50,000, depending on specifications, capacity, and supplier. Overview Cable tray elbow machines are specialized roll forming machines designed to create angles, curves, or bends in cable trays, allowing proper routing in industrial installations. These machines are often made of galvanized steel and come with ISO9001 certification for industrial quality. Arc or bridge elbow forming machines are capable of producing complex profiles for cable tray systems, including perforated or solid trays, and are widely used in electrical and construction industries. Price Range Entry-level machines for small-scale production or simpler profiles may start around $15,000–$20,000. Mid-range machines with higher production speed, multiple profile capabilities, and integrated hydraulic systems typically cost $25,000–$35,000. High-end or fully automated machines with advanced features, including multi-size forming, hydraulic punching, and cutting units, can reach $40,000–$50,000 or more. Exact pricing depends on factors such as material thickness capacity, tray width and height range, production speed, and automation level. Suppliers usually provide a quotation after confirming profile drawings and specifications. Purchasing and After-Sales Most suppliers, such as HEBEI XINNUO Roll Forming Machine Co., Ltd., require an inquiry to confirm the profile, price, and payment terms before purchase. Payment methods often include deposit or L/C, and machines are shipped internationally. After-sales service may include technician support on-site, with costs for travel and accommodation borne by the buyer. Warranty periods are typically 12 months, covering defects and technical support. Recommendation To get the most accurate price, it is recommended to contact suppliers directly with your required tray dimen...
