

Price of circuit cover for distribution box

AI Overview

Circuit breaker box covers typically range from $10 to $50 for standard residential models, with industrial or IP-rated covers costing $50 to $200 or more depending on size and material. Residential and Standard Covers For home use, circuit breaker box covers are available at major retailers like Walmart and Home Depot. Prices for standard plastic or metal covers generally start around $10–$30 for single-panel covers, depending on the brand and size (e.g., Eaton, Leviton, Square D) and whether they are UL listed for safety. Transparent covers for easy inspection of breakers, like the SYIZYEN 5-way box, are priced around $25–$40 on Amazon. Industrial and High-Protection Covers For commercial or outdoor applications, IP65–IP67 rated covers provide waterproof and dustproof protection. These covers, often made of metal or reinforced plastic, are available on platforms like Alibaba and Made-in-China, with prices ranging from $50 up to $200 or more, depending on size, customization, and certification. These are suitable for solar systems, EV charging stations, or industrial distribution boards. Factors Affecting Price Material: Plastic covers are cheaper, metal covers are more durable and expensive. Size and Number of Circuits: Larger panels or multi-way boxes cost more. Protection Rating: IP65/IP67 or weatherproof covers increase the price. Brand and Certification: UL-listed or CE-certified covers may be slightly higher in cost. Where to Buy Amazon: Offers a variety of residential and transparent covers ($25–$40) with customer reviews. Walmart: Affordable options for standard breaker covers ($10–$30) with online purchase. Home Depot: Wide selection of branded electrical panel covers, including UL-listed options. Alibaba / Made-in-China: Wholesale and industrial-grade covers with customizable options ($50–$200+) for commercial use. When purchasing, ensure the cover size matches your distribution box and check the IP rating if it will be exposed to outdoor conditions.
