

Price of high-quality high-end electrical distribution boxes in Lithuania

AI Overview

High-quality, high-end electrical distribution boxes in Lithuania typically range from €150 to over €1,000 per unit, depending on specifications, materials, and features.

Pricing Overview

The cost of premium distribution boxes depends on several factors including material construction, IP rating, amperage capacity, number of circuits, and integrated safety features. For example, IP66 or IP68-rated enclosures made from diecast aluminum or high-grade plastics designed for outdoor or industrial use command higher prices due to durability and weather resistance. Standard indoor plastic boxes with IP40 protection are generally more affordable but still offer high-quality safety and accessibility features.

Residential high-end boxes: Typically €150–€400, often featuring transparent doors, DIN-rail mounting, and modular configurations.

Commercial or industrial boxes: Prices range from €400–€1,000+, especially for three-phase systems, high amperage capacity, or boxes with advanced monitoring and automation capabilities.

Custom or specialized units: Customizable boxes with smart monitoring, energy management, or integration with building management systems can exceed €1,000 per unit.

Features Affecting Price

Material and Build Quality: Aluminum or reinforced polycarbonate enclosures are more expensive than standard plastic units.

Ingress Protection (IP) Rating: Outdoor or industrial boxes with IP65–IP68 protection are priced higher due to water and dust resistance.

Capacity and Configuration: Number of circuits, modularity, and three-phase compatibility increase cost.

Advanced Features: Smart monitoring, remote control, and energy efficiency enhancements add to the price.

Certifications and Compliance: Boxes conforming to IEC, DIN, or CSA standards may carry premium pricing.
