

Swedish Low-Voltage Complete Equipment Manufacturer

AI Overview

Elsteel, Logstrup, and GARO are leading Swedish manufacturers offering fully customizable low-voltage switchgear and modular enclosures for industrial and commercial applications. Key Swedish Manufacturers

Elsteel is a prominent Swedish manufacturer specializing in modular low-voltage enclosures and complete electrical solutions. They provide a full range of products from small terminal boxes to large distribution boards and motor control centers. Their modular systems are compatible with all breakers and designed for flexibility, sustainability, and high-quality performance. Elsteel is part of the KAMIC Group, which emphasizes innovation and global distribution of advanced electrical solutions.

Logstrup focuses on high-quality modular switchboards for low-voltage applications. They cater to high-impact industries and manage complete LV projects, offering tailored solutions for specific client requirements.

GARO provides fully customized low-voltage switchgear for currents up to 2500 A. Their products are CE marked, type-approved, and delivered with comprehensive test reports. GARO emphasizes robust and flexible enclosures, ensuring compliance with applicable standards and reliability in demanding environments.

Features and Capabilities

- Customization: All three manufacturers offer tailored solutions to meet specific project requirements, including modularity and scalability.
- Compliance and Certification: Products are CE marked and type-approved, ensuring adherence to European safety and quality standards.
- Sustainability: Elsteel emphasizes 100% sustainable products, aligning with carbon-zero initiatives.
- Applications: Suitable for industrial, commercial, and specialized sectors, including motor control, distribution boards, and complete low-voltage systems.

These manufacturers provide end-to-end solutions, from design and engineering to...
