

Where are the fiber optic cable splicing manufacturers in Argentina

AI Overview

Key fiber optic cable splicing manufacturers in Argentina include FIBROMARKET ARGENTINA, Comunitel, and Horizon, all offering fusion splicers, OTDRs, and technical support. Notable Manufacturers and Suppliers FIBROMARKET ARGENTINA is a specialized provider of optical fiber telecommunications solutions, offering a wide range of tools such as fusion splicers and OTDRs. The company has over 25 years of experience and provides training and technical support, making it a reliable partner for both installation and maintenance of fiber optic networks. Comunitel focuses on Fiber to the Home (FTTH) networks and provides a diverse range of fiber optic products, including splicing equipment. They emphasize innovation, technical support, and training, ensuring efficient deployment for underground and urban networks. Horizon acts as a key distributor of FiberHome products in Argentina, offering hybrid optical/electric cables and splicing tools. They provide network design services, technical consulting, and training, supporting both residential and business fiber optic projects. Additional Considerations These companies not only supply splicing equipment but also offer engineering services, network installation, and certification for optical networks. They cater to both public and private projects, ensuring robust connectivity solutions. For large-scale deployments, these manufacturers can provide comprehensive project support, including OTDR analysis, fiber certification, and structured cabling solutions. Summary For fiber optic cable splicing needs in Argentina, FIBROMARKET ARGENTINA, Comunitel, and Horizon are the primary manufacturers and distributors to consider. They provide fusion splicers, OTDRs, technical training, and full network support, making them suitable for both small-scale and large-scale telecommunications projects.
